

Insights

This month, you may notice something a little different on page four - we've split out commercial permit data into new commercial construction and commercial renovations. While parsing this data, we saw something worth highlighting when comparing year-over-year data. Fiscal year to date, we've seen a substantially larger number of commercial renovation permits than last fiscal year to date - and that's certainly worth noting!

DESIGN REVIEW

Design review is required for certain projects within the City's urban design and historic preservation zoning overlays. The vast majority of these reviews are completed at the staff level, however certain types of projects require D/DRC review.

All applications for the Bailey Bill tax abatement program must be reviewed by the D/DRC per ordinance; you can learn more about the Bailey Bill and other preservation incentives here.

Land Development Reviews

Approval for Major Subdivisions and Major Site Plans is granted at the Planning Commission level, whereas Minor Subdivisions and Minor Site Plans are reviewed solely by staff for compliance with the Unified Development Ordinance (UDO). Major Subdivisions are subdivisions of lots where platting, construction, opening, or extension of at least one of the following occurs: new streets, improvement of existing streets, water or sewer facilities, storm drainage facilities, and other utilities. Major Site Plans propose at least one of the following: nonresidential development of 100,000 square feet or greater, multi-family development of more than 25 units, or the development of new principal uses and structures on a lot.

Spruce Up Your Storm Drains & Help Prevent Surface Flooding

Did you know that you can help prevent surface flooding and protect water quality by looking to the lowly storm drain? These drains are designed to take in runoff from roadways, which comes swiftly and in high volumes during heavy Spring rains. Where storm drains are blocked by vegetation, trash, yard debris, or even matted pine needles, they struggle to take the surface runoff that would otherwise flood roadways and nearby property. These same drains carry that water directly to our waterways during rainfall events – and when they carry trash and debris with stormwater runoff, our local water quality is negatively impacted.

So, if you're taking on some Spring cleaning, don't forget your neighborhood storm drains – help clear them of debris and vegetation, and make sure your own piles won't block the flow of rainwater. You can make a real difference just by keeping those storm drains clean and clear!

Blocked or overgrown storm drains such as the one pictured above are unable to process heavy rains, and can contribute to surface flooding during storm events.

Celebrate With Us In May

Did you know that May is both National Historic Preservation Month and National Bike Month? We think the two are a perfect pair, and we hope you save the date to celebrate with us!

Our historic neighborhoods and business districts are easily accessed and enjoyed on two wheels, and generally our weather in May is perfect for exploring the City! While we hope you celebrate year-round, May is a great time to be more intentional about it, and to take advantage of the additional resources offered as part of local celebrations.

This May, you'll have the opportunity to take part in a number of activities and events sponsored by the City and community partners - so stay tuned!

Are you thinking about hosting your own event to celebrate? Let us know; we'd be happy to add you to the calendar! Connect with us and share your details by emailing transportationplanning@columbiasc.gov or preservation@columbiasc.gov.
